

FOR PERSONAL TRAINERS WHO COACH ONE TO ONE

Every session, written down. Every family, kept in the loop.

Your clients, their goals and their progress in one account. Build each session from a library of one-to-one drills, score every drill as it happens, and send the family a report they open on any phone.

1 A private report after every session

What you worked on, how it went and what to practice before next time. The family needs no account to open it.

2 Homework the phone counts

Set wall passes, shooting, ball control or juggling with a target and a date. The family's phone learns the ball from three touches and counts every one.

3 Did it stay?

Each run starts quietly. After a few days away that opening shows whether a skill held, nearly held or faded, and faded drills lead the next session.

4 Your clients are yours

Clients, notes, video and calendar in one record nobody else sees, with fitness tests against age-group norms and programs of four or six weeks.

One soccer platform, four parts. Each works on its own; connect them by code if you want to.

No sound leaves the family's phone; only the time of each touch does.
